

Yavinesh Trainer Profile

Design and Multimedia Trainer and AI Productivity Practitioner

Yavinesh is a design and multimedia trainer whose practice spans visual communication, motion graphics, video production, 3D animation and visualisation. He combines this creative foundation with AI productivity and practical digital solutions to help working adults communicate ideas, produce content and improve their workflows.

He brings 13 years of adult training experience and more than six years of prior industry experience as a DTP artist, graphic designer and multimedia designer. His teaching connects creative principles with production techniques, supported by examples from his own design, animation and application projects.

Design and multimedia expertise

Graphic design and visual communication: Layout, typography, image editing, vector illustration and publication design, with a focus on clear communication and effective visual presentation.

Motion graphics and video: Video editing, motion design and visual effects, connecting visual storytelling with the practical process of producing screen-based content.

3D animation and visualisation: Modelling, shading, rigging, lighting and rendering, with portfolio work in animation, retail interiors, architecture and product concepts. His wider training experience includes UI and UX, course authoring, technical drawing and BIM.

AI productivity and creative workflows

Yavinesh connects AI-assisted ideation, content development, document work and automation with established creative and workplace practices. His focus is on clear prompts, thoughtful review and repeatable workflows that support human judgement and design intent.
